Introduction. Diagnostic x-rays contribute to nearly 50% of the total annual collective effective dose of radiations from man-made and natural sources to the general population in western countries; computed tomography (CT) is the largest single source of this medical exposure.

Image quality in CT: From physical measurements to model

Liver imaging can be performed with sonography, computed tomography (CT) and magnetic resonance imaging. Ultrasound is, caused by the easy access, still the first-line imaging method of choice; CT and MRI are applied whenever ultrasound imaging yields vague results.

Introduction. In 2006, 67 million computed tomography (CT) examinations were performed in the United States alone. The result is an increase of medical radiation dose received as a percentage of the total radiation exposure from 15% in the early 1980s to almost 50% in 2006. Based on a model known as Biological Effects of Ionizing Radiation ...
